

Robert Walerczak

Software Developer

I'm a software developer, passionate about finding the simplest most comprehensive solutions to everyday problems, helping to empower people in all walks of life.

I highly value integrity, transparency, understanding and growth mindsets. I strive to embody these values in everything I do both personally and professionally.

My passions include, but aren't limited to, psychology cooking (and eating!), gaming, fitness and interpersonal relationships. I'm highly motivated by the people in my life and love rising up to challenges that move the entire community toward a better tomorrow.
